DOGS RAN BIG DOE TO DEATH

John Fritz, of Near Cashtown, Rescues Tired and Wounded Doe from Pursuing Dogs but Animal Dies Soon Afterward.

John Fritz, of near Cashtown, early this morning rescued a large doe from dogs, which had chased it out of South Mountain, and placed it in his stable Unfortunately the pretty animal died soon afterward from the wounds inflicted by its pursuers.

As soon as Mr. Fritz saw the nearly exhausted and frightened animal he drove off the dogs which were strange ones and had evidently come some distance. It is believed that they are the same as those which have been killing deer for the past few weeks in the Caledonia region The doe was placed in the stable and Mr. Fritz then communicated with Charles H. Wilson, of this place.

Mr. Wilson in turn called up State Game Commissioner Kalbfus who told him to instruct Mr. Fritz to dispose of the animal as he saw fit in case it died. The deer had been badly bitten and bruised and it died during the morning. The carcass was buried

TOWN BOY MAKES GOOD INVENTION

Millard M. Tawney, of this Place, Gets Patent on Railroad Device which is Expected to Save Railroads Millions.

Millard M. Tawney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tawney, of Steinwehr avenue, has patented an invention which its claimed will save railroads millions of dollars. Mr. Tawney is now living in Harrisburg where expert engineers of many of the most important railroads of the country are examining the frog point recently invented and patented by him. In working out the invention Mr. Tawney was assisted by H. H. Walton, an expert pattern maker employed by the Pennsylvania Steel Company.

The frog point is an adaption to the ordinary switch frog in use by railroads that will prove a saving of great sums of money if it is approved by the railroad experts, and their wholesale commendation of the invention now makes that almost certain. Frogs have been made in the steel mills in one piece, and when the point wears away the entire frog has been condemned and taken from the tracks to make way for another new and costly frog. The invention of a frog point allows the point to be inserted where the part wears away and under the new construction great savings are promised for every railroad in the country that puts the new frog into use.

The frog point is a small insertion that is bolted in its place and so fastened by a triangular dove-tail that it cannot be moved by the trains that pass over it. In addition to the dovetail large bolts hold the point in place, the bolts being inserted through the entire width of the frog at the intersection. Mr. Tawney has been granted patent 979 048 by the United States Patent Office for his latest invention, which follows the lock-nut which was patented some time ago.

Drawings of the new frog switch have been asked for by many of the largest railroad and street railway heads of the country, and are now being carefully examined by the president of the Chicago Street Railway system, the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company and many other companies

DOESN'T BELIEVE HUNTERS OPPOSE LICENSE PLAN

Secretary Joseph Kalbfus of the state game commission, has placed in the hands of an attorney the matter of ascertaining it a bill providing that the fees from licensing hunters can be used for the protection and preservation of game would be constitutional.

The bill provides that the fees collected be used for this purpose. On the other hand the legislature two years ago presented a bill providing that all money collected in the departments be turned into general revenues of the state. Automobile fees were at first used for good roads, but are now turned back to the state treasury

In speaking of the petition, now being circulated against licensing hunters, Dr. Kalbfus said:

"It is an easy thing to get signers to petitions, I do not believe that ten per cent. of the signers of the petition are men who go hunting. What would happen if the railroaders, for instance, went before the legislature with a bill and then a petition signed by lawyers, ministers, draymen and bricklayers were presented, protesting against the measure?"

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Dandruff Cured

Three applications removed all the dandruff and left my scalp clean, white and smooth. Wm. Croak, Rochester, N. Y.

It is Positively Guaranteed to Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color

If other "so-called" Restorers have failed, don't give up hope, but give WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY a trial. You run no risk. If it is not exactly as represented, your money will be refunded.

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it. MISS E. A. ROSS, Sharon, Mercer Co., Pa.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement. STEPHEN BACON, Rochester, N. Y.

ADDICKS OUT FOR U. S. SENATE

Delaware Legislature May Be Deadlocked.

FORCES ARE LINED UP

Managers For Addicks Assert They Control Enough Votes to Block the Election of Dupont.

Dover, Del., Jan. 24.—With the positive assurances by the Dupont leaders that Colonel H. A. Dupont will receive the full thirty-one Republican votes at today's balloting for United States senator, also comes the positive statement from one of the Republican senators that Colonel Dupont will not receive the majority vote in the senate, which will necessitate the joint balloting tomorrow to determine just who the successful winner will be.

With the candidacy of John Edward Addicks, Dr. C. R. Layton, former United States senator; J. Frank Allee, former congressman; Dr. Hiram R. Burton, and others against the organization in Delaware, all asserting that enough votes had been secured to block the election of Dupont, comes the full assurance of such leaders as States Chairman Edmund C. Mitchell, Colonel A. R. Benson, Colonel W. D. Denney and certain members of the legislature, that the election of Dupont is beyond a question of a doubt, and that the senator can rest easy as to the result not only of today, but tomorrow, when the joint baloting will take place.

Drexler May Lead.

Senator Drexler was the one man most sought after, and while the opposition to Dupont were not making known their plans as to who would be voted for by their side, it was strongly intimated that Senator Drexler probably would be the one voted for.

Such leaders as Anthony Higgins, Martin Burris, Dr. Burton and a host of others not seen here in recent years on the eve of a senatorial election remained over in Dover over night and are wideawake as to possible changes in the organization's plans.

Many of the Republican members frankly declared that they would abide by the caucus nominee of a week ago and would vote for Colonel Dupont.

As evidence that the caucus of a week ago will stand was fully established when the house took an adjournment, all of the up-state Republican members returning to their homes.

Notwithstanding the claim of the Dupont men that everything is fixed the opposition, not only Addicks, but others, declare that there are four of the members of the legislature who will not vote for Dupont, with a possible fifth, which would block the election. It is further declared that if there is no election tomorrow there will be no election at the present term.

The Democratic members of the legislature nominated Willard Saulsbury, of Wilmington, for United States senator.

The ballots follow:

First ballot—Willard Saulsbury, 9; John Biggs, 2; L. Irving Handy, 3; R. R. Kenney, 1; John R. Nicholson, 2; Andrew C. Gray, 2; W. W. Knowles, 1; George Gray, 1.

Second ballot—Willard Saulsbury, 11; Andrew C. Gray, 5; Handy, 2; W. T. Records, 2; J. R. Nicholson, 1. The selection of Saulsbury was made unanimous.

KEEP OUT MME. CURIE

French Savants Vote Against Admitting Her to Academy of Sciences.

Paris, Jan. 24.—Madame Marie Curie, who, with her husband, the late Professor Pierre Curie, discovered radium, was defeated in her candidacy for membership in the Academy of Sciences, receiving only 28 votes as against 30 for Edouard Branly.

Madame Curie was recently refused admittance to the Institute of France, the oldest and most distinguished intellectual body in France. The members decided that the admittance of a woman would break the ancient tradition of the institute.

Fire Sweeps Fayette City.

Fayette City, Pa., Jan. 24.—Firemen from Charleroi, Monessen and Belle Vernon, hurriedly called when it was seen that this place was in the grasp of a fire it could not control, probably saved the town from destruction. An entire block was burned, and the loss is estimated at $75,000. Among the buildings burned are the George W. Miller and McCune buildings and two school houses.

Tennessee Deadlock Ends.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 24.—The deadlock in the Tennessee legislature over the election of a United States senator to succeed J. B. Frazier was broken by the election of Luke Lea, an independent Democrat, regarded as the candidate of the fusionists. Mr. Lea is a lawyer and publisher.

WHIRLED TO HIS DEATH

"It's Too Late," Shouted Man as He Was Thrown to Death.

Washington, Pa., Jan. 24. — "Keep your hands off. It's too late," shouted William J. Whitman to his friend, W. A. Hampson, as he was being whirled to death in a flywheel in the boiler house of the Pittsburg & Westmoreland Coal company's plant at Bentleyville.

Whitman, the master mechanic, had been caught in the wheel, and, realizing that he could not escape, shouted to his friend, who had attempted to take him by the arm. The next instant Whitman had been decapitated and his body thrown out on the floor.

PROBING BRIBERY IN CANNON'S HOME

Grand Jury Investigating Alleged Vote Buying.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 24.—The Vermilion county grand jury began an investigation into the vote buying and selling of votes in past elections in the county, chiefly the general election of last November, in which Joseph G. Cannon, speaker of the national house of representatives, was elected.

Only two witnesses were scheduled to appear before the grand jury. The first scheduled to appear was R. H. Frankenberger, a reporter on the Commercial News, whose publication of an alleged "confession" by the city attorney, Frank W. Jones, that Jones had himself bought votes, and its subsequent repudiation by Jones brought the investigation to a crisis. Mr. Frankenberger and an Indianapolis newspaper man were expected to tell of a conversation they had with Jones.

MRS. MARTIN GETS 7 YEARS

Slayer of Ocey Snead Gets Heavy Sentence.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 24.—Seven years in prison was the sentence imposed upon Mrs. Caroline B. Martin for the part she played in the death of Ocey Snead, her daughter, by Judge Ten Eyck.

Mrs. Martin, who had pleaded non vult to manslaughter when arraigned on an indictment charging her with murder, apparently expected a much lighter sentence and became greatly agitated when she learned her fate.

The body of Ocey Snead was found in a half-filled bath tub in a partly furnished house in East Orange, N. J., Nov. 29, 1909. The indictment of Mrs. Martin, the victim's mother; Mrs. Virginia A. Wardlaw and Mrs. Mary W. Snead, Ocey's aunt and mother-in-law, for murder, followed.

Mrs. Wardlaw died in jail. Mrs. Snead faces trial, but it is said that the indictment against her will be nolle prossed.

FRUITS AS FOOD.

Some food analyses which have been made by the California, North Dakota and some other experiment stations show quite clearly that apples and other fruits have a food value that should commend them for use in the average family entirely apart from the fact of their fine flavor and the relish with which they are eaten by the average person. These experiments show that fruits are fairly cheap sources of energy and are to be commended on the ground of economy for combination in proper quantities with cheap proteid foods to furnish a balanced ration. It has been found that 10 cents' worth of fresh apples used as food furnish 1,467 units of energy to the body, 10 cents' worth of porterhouse steak furnishes 444 units, while 10 cents' worth of dried beans furnish 892 units or calories. From this it will be seen that apples as well as other fruits are to be favored because of their food values, entirely apart from the fact that they are pretty to look at, fine flavored and have a wholesome effect on the digestive process.

Liberal Feeding Pays.

It never pays to "rough" stock through the winter. The best beef that can be put on any animal is the baby beef. It has been thought by many farmers that it is a matter of economy to rough animals through the winter and then fit them with the aid of pasture in the spring. This, however, simply serves to set them back and has never been found to pay.

Good Work

Done Daily in Gettysburg. Many Citizens Tell of it.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Gettysburg still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

Harry J. Tawney, 9 Steinwehr Ave., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "We publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago and at this time willingly speak in their praise again. My back ached almost constantly and at times I could hardly get around. The kidney secretions gave me much annoyance by their irregularity in passage and I was lame and stiff. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at the People's Drug Store and they positively and permanently cured me. I have been in good health ever since. I know of a number of other people who have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and benefit has always been received."

THREE HURT IN STRIKE RIOT

Trolley Car Fired Upon In Bristol and State Police Called.

Bristol, Pa., Jan. 24.—The strike of 400 workmen at the Bristol Leather company's plant assumed serious proportions when a loaded trolley car of the Trenton-Philadelphia line was fired upon.

This followed the injury of two police officers and a workman and the arrival of a detachment of state constabulary later in the day. The sheriff also swore in a score of men as special deputies to help reserve order.

The trolley car was fired upon as it passed through a dark section of the town. Bullets crashed through a dozen windows, but all the passengers miraculously escaped injury.

The leather plant is now closely guarded and officers are patrolling the streets of Bristol.

Assistant Chief Anthony R. Tice, Constable Henry Baker and Nick Sandro, a workman, were hurt by stones alleged to have been thrown by striking members of the Amalgamated Leather Workers' union, No. 109, which wants the Bristol Patent Leather company to run its plant on a union basis.

Revolvers have been fired to intimidate operatives who have not joined in the strike. Strikers and sympathizers congregated on the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad, and returning workmen were greeted with volleys of ballast stones. Sandro was most seriously hurt, having been knocked unconscious.

BOOK OVER HEART STOPS DEATH BULLET

Negro Shot at White Man From Ambush.

Oak View, Va., Jan. 24.—A thick notebook saved the life of William East, a farmer residing near here, when Cyrus Dudley, colored, shot him.

The bullet went through East's coat, the notebook and struck him just under the heart, inflicting only a slight flesh wound.

Dudley, while walking on the street, bumped into Edgar East, the injured man's brother, almost knocking him down. Angered, East took a large piece of wood, knocked him down and proceeded down the street. The colored man, knowing the way East had to go home, hid in the bushes and lay in wait for him.

William East, accompanied by Ray V. Gladding, was going home when the colored man jumped from ambush uttering oaths and shot William East with a revolver. Seeing him fall, he ran, believing his victim dead.

A warrant was sworn out for Dudley, who was found in his mother's house, fully armed. Three officers were held at bay, and not until a posse was organized did he give up. He was placed in the town lockup, but was later taken to the county jail, as threats of lynching were made.

PREACHER A HORSE THIEF

Arrested Just as He Concluded an Eloquent Sermon.

Lakeland, Fla., Jan. 24.—After he had concluded an eloquent sermon in the Presbyterian church here, and just as he stepped from the pulpit, Rev. John Gibbs, of Paterson, N. J., was arrested on a charge of horse stealing by the sheriff, who had been notified to look out for Gibbs by the authorities of Tampa.

The man has been in Florida for some weeks, going under the names of "Griffin," "Gibbs" and "Epstein," and there are three separate charges of horse stealing against him.

Two weeks ago he hired a horse and buggy from a liveryman in Jacksonville, and neither horse or buggy has been seen since. Last Thursday he ordered a saddle horse from a Tampa stableman, and the animal has disappeared. The prisoner declares he is a Presbyterian preacher and that he comes from the north, but refuses to give his real name.

Robbed While at Church.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 24.—Thieves raided New Cumberland while most of the people were at church, and several homes have reported thefts running into the hundreds of dollars. At the home of Rev. E. W. Leech money and jewelry were taken while Mr. Leech was conducting a revival service. The thieves ransacked the house. The cash drawer of the Iroquois hotel was also robbed.

About Hog Cholera.

If a hog dies and there is another in the same herd acting as though the dead one was his most intimate friend cut the dead one open and examine thoroughly. If there are any red spots upon either the lungs, kidneys or bowels, or if the spleen is enlarged, or if there are any ulcers in the intestines, or if the skin of the abdomen is colored red or purple, it probably died of cholera.

There are two forms of hog cholera, the acute and the chronic. The acute form kills very rapidly; the hogs "die like flies." In the chronic form the animals linger along for several days or weeks before they either die or get well. In the acute form in the post-mortems look for red spots on the internal organs or red skin. In the chronic form look for ulcers in the intestines.

DAVID G. PHILLIPS SHOT ON STREET

Noted Novelist Target For Bullets in New York.

ASSAILANT KILLS HIMSELF

Phillips Does Not Know Assassin or Cause of the Shooting—Six Bullets Struck Him, Inflicting Probably Fatal Wounds.

New York, Jan. 24.—David Graham Phillips, novelist and magazine writer, was shot six times and probably mortally wounded in front of the home of Schuyler Schieffiin, 115 Grammercy Park, North, just as Mr. Phillips was about to enter the Princeton club for his mail.

The shots were fired by Fitzhugh Golye Goldsborough, a professional violinist. After shooting Phillips Goldsborough shot himself in the right temple and dropped dead.

What caused Goldsborough, who was waiting near the entrance to the Princeton club for Mr. Phillips, to fire the shots is not known. When the wounded man was carried into the club he was still conscious, and when asked whether he knew the man who shot him, Phillips answered that he didn't. Later it was learned from Harrison W. Phillips, a brother of David Graham Phillips, that for some time the wounded man has been receiving letters, notes, telegrams and telephone calls of a threatening and abusive nature, not only at his home, but at the Princeton club. Harrison Phillips said that no name was attached to these communications, but that in view of the shooting he supposed Goldsborough had sent them.

Persons acquainted with Goldsborough say he appeared to be mentally weak and that he had a grudge "against a certain writer," adding a vague story about being harmed by this writer in a magazine article some time ago.

Friends Heard the Shots.

Newton James and Frank Davis were just coming out of the Princeton club when the shooting took place. They saw Mr. Phillips coming up the street from the direction of Fourth avenue, but noticed no one near him at the time. As they looked away for a moment they heard shots and, turning, saw Mr. Phillips stagger.

As they ran up to him Goldsborough, who had just shot him, fell dead on the street from a self-inflicted wound in the head. With Jacob Jacoby, a passerby, they ran to Mr. Phillips and held him up. The author was apparently in great agony.

"For heaven's sake get me into a building and get a doctor," he said.

James asked him who the man was who had shot him.

"I don't know," the wounded man gasped out.

Davis and James carried him into the clubhouse, and later he was taken to Bellevue hospital.

Dr. Wilson found that six steel 32-caliber bullets from a Colt automatic pistol had entered Mr. Phillips' body. All of those bullets except one had come out of the body, making eleven perforations altogether.

The most dangerous wound was in the right side of the chest. This bullet had punctured the lung, and the doctors expressly fear this wound, as it may lead to pneumonia.

There was a superficial wound of the abdomen below this wound and two more flesh wounds in the right hip. Another bullet had torn the flesh of the left forearm, and another, the only one remaining in the body, is lodged in the right thigh. The physicians said that as the wounds were cleaned promptly and as the bullets were of steel they hoped that blood poisoning would not set in.

MRS. SCHENK LOSES STRONG WITNESSES

Court Rules Out Evidence of Alleged Plot Against Her.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 24.—An unusual turn came in the trial of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, accused of the poisoning of her husband, John O. Schenk, when Prosecutor Handlan moved that the court exclude from the court records the evidence introduced by the defense tending to show that there had been a family conspiracy to rid the Schenk family of the defendant.

The motion was upheld by Judge Jordan, and the testimony of Mrs. Jane Hedges and Dr. F. B. Morrison was stricken from the records.

Mrs. Hedges testified for the defense that Albert Schenk, a brother of the poisoned man, had told her that he would leave no stone unturned to rid the family of his sister-in-law because of her reputation before marriage, and that he (Albert) wished she would break her neck every time she went out in her automobile.

The testimony of Dr. Morrison was to the effect that Dr. J. W. Myers, the state witness, who said he sold Mrs. Schenk poison, was regularly employed at the hospital of Dr. T. M. Haskins, a brother-in-law of John and Albert Schenk. The defense has intimated several times that Dr. Haskins was a party to the conspiracy they alleged, and it was to show his connections with Dr. Myers that they introduced Morrison's testimony.

A COLD BLOODED MURDER

Two Men Held Victim While He Was Shot to Death.

Newburgh, N. Y., Jan. 24.—A murder of the most cold blooded character occurred at a point in the city limits known as "the dump," and the circumstances are such that it is thought to hove been of the Black Hand vengeance.

Vincenti Minnescalco, better known as "Big Jim" Perry, was the victim. His body was literally riddled with bullets, five of which passed entirely through the body.

The shooting was witnessed by a colored man named Johnson, who says there were five men and a woman in the attacking party. The men were arguing and gesticulating wildly. Suddenly the party separated. Two of the men grabbed Perry. One man held him while the other sent the contents of a revolver into his body. After the man had fallen one of the men lifted the body and fired two more shots into it, and then all ran away.

The following officers were elected: President, Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., Oregon; first vice president, Representative George B. Norris, Nebraska; second vice president, Governor Chase Osborn, Michigan; treasurer, Charles R. Crane, Chicago; executive committee, Senator Moses E. Clapp, Minnesota; Senator Joseph L. Bristow, Kansas; Representative E. H. Hubbard, Iowa; Representative Irvine L. Lenroot, Wisconsin; Representative-elect William Kent, California; Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania; George L. Record, New Jersey, and the president, vice presidents and treasurer members ex-officio.

The declaration of principles follows:

"We, the undersigned, associate ourselves together as the National Progressive Republican league.

The object of the league is the promotion of popular government and progressive legislation.

People's Will Flouted.

"Popular government in America has been thwarted, and progressive legislation strangled by the special interests which control caucuses, delegates, conventions and party organizations and, through control of the machinery of government, dictate nominations and platforms, elect administrations, legislatures, representatives in congress and United States senators and control cabinet officers.

"Under existing conditions legislation in the public interest has been baffled and defeated. This is evidenced by the long struggle to secure laws but partially effective, for the control of railway rates and services, the revision of the tariff in the interest of the producer and consumer, statutes dealing with trusts and combinations based on sound economic principles as applied to modern industrial and commercial conditions, a wise, comprehensive and impartial reconstruction of the banking and monetary laws, the conservation of coal, oil, gas, timber, water powers and other natural resources belonging to the people and for the enactment of all legislation solely for the common good.

"Just in proportion as popular government has in certain states superseded the delegate convention system and the people have assumed control of the machinery of government, has government become responsive to the popular will and progressive legislation been secured.

"The Progressive Republican league believes that popular government is fundamental to all other questions. To this end it advocates: 'The election of United States senators by direct vote of the people; direct primaries for the nomination of all elective officials; the direct election of delegates to national conventions with opportunity for the voter to express his choice for president and vice president; amendment to state constitutions providing for the initiative, referendum and recall; a thorough-going corrupt practice act.'

"The league will co-operate with progressives in the several states, and, wherever acceptable, will render assistance in promoting the organization of state leagues.

"Whenever requested by any Progressive State league or by progressive leaders in state legislatures the National Progressive Republican league will aid in the preparation of appropriate bills and resolutions, and will furnish speakers and literature in support of legislative action upon the propositions enumerated in the foregoing declaration of principles."

Among the signers are:

United States senators—Jonathan Bourne, Jr., Oregon; Albert J. Beveridge, Indiana; Joseph L. Bristow, Kansas; Norris Brown, Nebraska; Albert B. Cummins, Iowa; Moses E. Clapp Minnesota; Joseph M. Dixon, Montana; A. J. Gronna, North Dakota; Robert M. LaFollette, Wisconsin.

YES, THEY HAD A CODE.

And the Oldest Employee Told the Editor All About It.

In one of the late O. Henry's stories, entitled "Calloway's Code," the author tells how the war correspondent of a New York paper away in Japan had sent a mysterious message in code which no one could understand. The managing editor was at his wits' end until some one thought of appealing to Heffelbauer, who had been on the paper since "Park row was a potato patch." So Heffelbauer was called into consultation.

Heffelbauer was an institution. He was half janitor, half a handy man about the office and half watchman—thus becoming the peer of thirteen and one-half tailors. Sent for, he came, radiating his nationality.

"Heffelbauer," said the m. e., "did you ever hear of a code belonging to the office a long time ago—a private code? You know what a code is, don't you?"

"Yah," said Heffelbauer. "Sure I know vat a code is. Yah, apout dwelf or fifteen year ago der office had a code. Der reborters in der city room haf it here."

"Ah!" said the m. e. "We're getting on the trail now. Where was it kept, Heffelbauer? What do you know about it?"

"Somedimes," said the retainer, "dey keep it in der little room behind der library room."

"Can you find it?" asked the m. e. eagerly. "Do you know where it is now?"

"Mein Gott!" said Heffelbauer. "How long you dink a code live? Der reborters call him a maskeet. But von day he butt mit his head der editor, and"— will continue until the close of January 25th. We begin taking stock in that department on the next day.

The argument is--the lower the stock, and the more cash the department can show at the close of the year, the healthier the conditions.

Of course we could not do business without profit all the year-but we can make it pay to have these Clearance Sales at a loss of profit several times a year, thus being able to stock up in NEW FRESH Goods that will sell at a profit.

As our stock is a very large one--there are still Rich Pickings of the lines advertised earlier in the week

LEWIS E. KIRSSIN

Theology and the Leech.

There is a waterfall near Coonoor, in India, which some writer christened Leech falls. It abounded in leeches, which had a habit of attaching themselves to the skirts of ladies who passed across the marshy ground. "I remember on one occasion," says an English official, "when I had taken some of my friends to see it, that one impulsive lady, looking round at the beautiful spot, exclaimed, 'Is this heaven, or'—after a short pause, during which she became suddenly aware that a leech had attached her—'or the other place?'"

It Never Comes Again.

There are gains for all our losses,
There are balms for all our pain,
But when youth, the dream, departs
It takes something from our hearts,
And it never comes again.

We are stronger and are better
Under manhood's sterner reign,
Still we feel that something sweet
Followed youth with flying feet
And will never come again.

Something beautiful is vanished,
And we sigh for it in vain
We behold it everywhere,
On the earth and in the air,
But it never comes again.

—R. H. Stoddard

Two negroes on a Louisiana plantation became involved in a row with another Ethopian who was handy with a gun. The two started to run just about the time the bad man began to shoot. The fleeing ones had proceeded about 100 yards when the following dialogue occurred:

"Sam, you hear dat bullet?"

"Yes, I hearn it—two times."

"How you mean two times?" asked the questioner as he quickened his pace.

"I hearn dat bullet ones when it passed me, and den anudder time when I passed it," jerked out Sam between short breaths.

A Sudden Transformation

By R. W. KEENAN

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

I went from America to South Africa, leaving my wife and children at home. I was run down in health, discouraged and felt that the only way to pluck up courage and get on my feet was to light out, leave all cares behind me and strike a new field. My wife's father—an excellent man, by the way—agreed to take care of my family till I could send for them or return to them restored in health and pluck.

I left America sick and disheartened. A man sick is usually a man disheartened, and when he is obliged to go away by himself to recover his health he feels as if the bottom has dropped out of his life. I never expected to see my family again. However, the sea voyage helped me, and by the time I reached Africa I felt able to do something for myself.

I went to work in the Kimberley diamond mines, where I learned to tell a diamond when I saw it, no matter if it was in the rough. One day in walking across a field I saw one and recognized it at once. It was as big as a small English walnut and about the same shape. I pounced upon it, looked it over and, sure I was right about it being a diamond, put it in my pocket. Even if of a poor grade it would make me rich.

I made up my mind to return to America with my find. So, procuring a little chamois skin bag, I put the diamond in it, first marking my name on the bag in ink. Then I took a traveling wagon for the coast.

There were half a dozen of us traveling together, but only two of my fellow passengers attracted my attention. One was a big, rough looking man, who sat beside me, noticeable for his villainous appearance. The other was a little man in the garb of a curate of the English church. He was reading his prayer book most of the time, seeming to be only interested in holy matters, a typical British parson of the inferior grade, one of those miserable creatures who for some dirty work done a lord gets a living, though this one, being in Africa, it appeared more likely that he was a missionary clergyman.

I hadn't been sitting long by the big, rough man, whose accent marked him for a Yorkshire man, when I thought of my diamond, which was in one of my pockets next to him. I clapped my hand on the place where it should be, and, lo, it was gone!

I knew it had passed into the possession of the Yorkshireman. But what was I to do? I was unarmed, and I could see the butt of his pistol extending from his hip pocket. I looked over the passengers to see if there was one I could rely on to help me in case I should accuse the man and claim my property. But two of them were women, and the men in the coach, except the two I have mentioned, were weakly chaps, who appeared to have very little stuff in them. There seemed nothing for me to do but wait till we got to the end of the route, keep the man in sight at all hazards and take my chances for an opportunity to recover my diamond. This I decided on and did not show by word or act that I had been robbed.

The opportunity came sooner than I looked for it. Suddenly the wagon was stopped by a single man, who ordered us all out and to line up, as road agents do in western America. Only the curate refused, and he appeared to do so from abject cowardice. Retreating to a far corner, he begged the robber not to kill him.

The robber threatened to do so if he didn't get out at once, but the clergyman only whimpered and covered his face with his hands. The robber, transferring his revolver to his left hand, entered the wagon, seized the little man by the collar with his right hand and was pulling him out when a sharp crack rang out and the robber fell back out of the wagon dead.

If there was any life left in him it was knocked out by the curate, who jumped on him with both feet. I never saw a small man grow big so quickly in my life. The next thing he did was to plant his fist under the jaw of the Yorkshireman, who, recovering from the surprise of the episode, was putting his hand to his hip for his revolver. The big man did not have time to get up before the curate was on him, hammering him in the face with a Derringer. Having stunned him, he took a pair of handcuffs out of his pocket and clapped them on his wrists.

"What can I do for you?" I asked of the parson.

"Get things in order to go on. I'm Jack Sharp of Scotland Yard. This man was the other's pard. I have been following him to take him to England. I saw him rob you, and I knew he was here to help the other."

I did as he directed, got the driver into place, and, finding some rope under a seat, Jack Sharp bound the prisoner firmly. Then we proceeded on the journey. Sharp took my gem out of the man's pocket and handed it to me. I got safely home with it, had it ground and turned into cash. I wouldn't like to say how much money it brought me, but since I sold it I don't have to work unless I wish to.

Talk about transformations! When the sniveling curate changed himself into the celebrated Jack Sharp of Scotland Yard I saw the quickest one on record.

Balked on Water.

Senator Tillman tells of an old man he used to know who drank too much. He said: "He was a fine old fellow in other respects, and it was pitiful to see him disgracing himself. One day I read him a long lecture on the sin of drunkenness. 'Water,' I said, 'is the thing. Stick to water, James.'

"'Well,' the old man answered, 'there's only one place in the Bible where a man asked for water, and I guess you know where he was.'"

THE MAN OF THE HOUR

"The Man of the Hour" will be seen in this city, at the Walter Theatre, Friday, January 27, and as local theatre goers have heard and read so much of this great play, there is no doubt standing room will be at a premium. While George Broadhurst, the playwright, has taken for his theme certain conditions which exist in every large city, still there is said to be interwoven in "The Man of the Hour" a delightful love story, and is so skillful in construction as to hold an audience's keen attention from beginning to end. The company to be seen here is the same exceptionally strong one as made such a great success in the big cities including Joseph Harris, Chas. H. Ellwood, Harry J. Oehler, L. C. Phillips, Charles Drake, Edward Riley, Fred Renolds, Walter Carter, Richard Hogan, John P. Daly, M. J. Underwood, Frank Weston, Peter Digman, Georgie Brantley, Edra Lyman and Marie Casmere. Prices 50, 75, $1.00 and $1.50.

BEST PLAY OF THE SEASON

Many may have been of the opinion that "The Forger" is not an up-to-date bill, but those who witnessed last night's performance testify to the contrary. The story of "The Forger" deals with American social life of today. A husband, a wife and a society detective are the principal roles in the piece. "The Forger" is being presented this afternoon at a matinee performance, and will be offered again tonight. It deserves a liberal patronage. Knoxville Sentinel, Sept. 30, 1908. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cts. At Walter's Theatre this evening.

GRIMES' CELLAR DOOR

Of all the novelty productions of the season, James B. Mackie's Musical Farce Comedy, "Grimes Cellar Door" is said to be one of the real big successes. Not only is this play intensely interesting from a comedy point of view, but also from a musical standpoint as the female portion of the cast is headed by Miss Ethyl Merritt, whose wonderful soprano voice has won her first rank among American concert singers. Then too there are the Three English Rosebuds and a chorus of singing and dancing beauties. Walter's Theatre, Wednesday, January 25. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cts.
